SUPPORTED BY

Jobs and training transport.

Area Connect is a flexible transport solution in regional areas to help people get to work or training if access to transport is limited or unavailable.

We are a short-term solution to help remove barriers to jobs and training.

We don't compete with or duplicate existing transport services.

We operate Monday to Friday (excluding public holidays). Contact a local coordinator to discuss your needs.

How we can help:

✓ Connect to employment

We transport people to work, interviews, and appointments with employment providers.

✓ Connect to training

We transport people to a trade training centre or other vocational training program.

✓ Connect with existing public transport

We can transport people to the closest public transport service (where available) to get them to their place of work or training.

Who we work with:

- Clients
- Jobs Hubs
- Workforce Australia providers
- Registered Training Organisations
- Employers
- Other service providers

A personalised transport plan.

We have local coordinators based around the state.

Our coordinators will develop a free and personalised transport plan with you or your client to help them get to work or training.

This plan may include providing transport in one of our minibuses, or linking in with existing public transport services.

Get in touch with us to talk about your needs.
